NOTICE TO U. S. MAIL CONTRACTORS AND THE PUBLIC.

Auditor's Office, Post Office Department, November 1, 1853. T HAS LONG BEEN THE PRACTICE of this office to pay the drafts drawn and negotiated by contractors for carrying the United States mails, for the amounts, respectively, of their quarterly pay. It was established to accommodate the contractors, and meet their necessities, in advance of the regular and slower process of payadvance of the regular and slower process of paying by the drafts or warrants of the department, and was intended only to apply to one draft per route from each contractor for the whole amount, (deducting fines, collections, &c...) of his quarterly pay; but it has been, and is quite generally so misunderstood, as to be supposed to allow any number of drafts, and fer any amount, not exceeding in the aggregate, the contract pay for the quarter. A privilege conceded for accommodation (for a was never anything more) has thus been made to embarrass materially the business of this office, forced upon it the settlement of the private accounts of contractors, and thrown upon the exchanges of the country, with a quasi sanction of this office, a species of paper currency unauthorized by the laws.

It not unfrequently occurs, too, that this office is

Ole Bull's Colony. Having observed in your paper, of the 16th instant, a letter headed "Ole Bull's Colony in Pennsylvania," I deem it my duty, as the counsel of Mr. Bull, (he being absent from the city,) to correct the impression which the public would receive from that letter, almost every paragraph of which is without foundation.

Washington Sentinel.

It seems the ostensible author of this rich It seems the ostensible author of this rich production is one Yorg, a medical man, who emigrated from some place at the west of this colony, and has been, since his arrival, living rent free in a house of Mr. Bull's, and otherwise most plentifully partaking of his bounty. While pretending to be a warm friend of Ole Bull and the Norwegians, he has secretly avowed that he would have all the Norwegians routed, and settle the colony with Germans, to which race he belongs. He endeavored to obtain the situation of overseer, in which he failed. His whole career since his arrival at the colony has been characterized with duplicity colony has been characterized with duplicity and imbecility, never having accomplished any-thing, except to bring a man with him to the colony who has turned out to be of the same tamp with himself. It is so evident that this letter emanated from and was written to curry favor with certain parties, who were connected with the late associa-tion, that justice demands that I should give a full history of Mr. Bull's unfortunate connec-

In the summer of 1852, John F. Cowan, of Williamsport, Joseph T. Bailey, of Philadelphia, and others, procured for themselves an introduction to Ole Bull, and through the agency of a person who was then his attorney, persuaded him to abandon a project which he had nearly completed, of purchasing lands in Virginia, and to enter into an association with them to found a colony on lands in Potter county, of which they were the owners. Fifteen hundred dollars were exacted from Mr. Bull to pay the expenses of a trip for the whole party up to view the lands. A farmer, who lived in the vicinity, was solicited by a person connected with the affair—but whose name for the present I withhold—to represent to Mr. Bull as he passed through there, that the lands were worth five dollars an acre, and increasing in value.

Mr. Cowan, who headed the party, falsely represented to Mr. Bull, and also to Mr. Dudley, a well known merchant of this city, who has escaped only with a loss of $3,000, that certain lands, and almost the only level or cleared spot in the whole tract of 20,000 acres, belonged to him and his associates, and thus induced Mr. Bull to consent to found the colony there. A large sum of money was immediately expended by Mr. Bull in procuring and forward ing emigrants; and, finally, a meeting was held in Philadelphia, (Mr. Bull not being present,) at which Cowan was appointed sole superin-tendent and manager, Bailey the treasurer, and Mr. Bull president.

Ten thousand dollars were obtained from

Mr. Bull by Cowan, without giving him any equivalent, not so much as a receipt. Bailey, through Cowan and another, got from him twenty-five thousand dollars more, for which it is now alleged they were to give Mr. Bull deeds to certain portions of the land; but not the scratch of a pen was given to Mr. Bull to show Cowan, some ten months after he had received the money, was reluctantly induced to give a deed for about ten thousand acres, out of which he covertly excepted all the tract that had induced Mr. Bull to make the purchase. This deception was not discovered until after I was retained as his counsel, and went personally to the lands to examine the validity of the title, dc., when I ascertained that Bailey and Cowan did not, and never had, owned a foot of this tract, all of which belonged to Mr. George Stewardson, of Philadelphia, of whom they had made several ineffectual attempts to purchase it. Under this deception Mr. Bull had expended, from his own private purse, twenty thousand dollars in putting up buildings and satisfying the demands of settlers, who complained to him that Cowan did not pay them for their

Bailey held on to the $25,000, and still Mr. Bull had never been able to get a deed, or the slightest equivalent; and when he wrote to have the money returned, or else a deed, received as his only satisfaction, the answer—
"That he was a foreigner, and could not hold lands." Mr. Bailey, I know, has the reputation of a shrewd artificer in gold and the base metals; but the fact that he did not discover that Ole Bull, the Norwegian, was not a native born Yankee till after he had got his money, does not speak much for his historical learning. In July last I was employed as Mr. Bull's counsel, and, finding matters in this curious state, I advised him to abandon the whole conern, and demand a return of his money. After nearly three months time spent in collecting evidence in Potter county and elsewhere, and in frequent meetings of the counsel for the respective parties, a compromise was effected, by which Mr. Bull returned the deed to Cowan, nd received back his $10,000 in the shape of a bond payable in six, twelve, eighteen and wenty-four months; and he retired from the association with a loss, as he asserts, and can show, of nearly $40,000.

By that settlement, Ole Bull was to pay a certain schedule of the debts of the association, every dollar of which has been paid as fast as the parties could be communicated with. Baiey, Cowan, &c., assumed to pay the balance of the debts, and have not done so; and it is the non-payment of these debts alone that has caused all the suffering at the colony, and sub-jected Mr. Bull to the abuse of some of his

The base attempt to throw the blame of the nismanagement of the colony upon Ole Bull, s in keeping with the rest of the scheme. Cowan was the superintendent, and Bailey, at his own urgent solicitation, was treasurer of the as-sociation that founded the colony; and on their neads alone will fall the odium, and to them alone can be justly attributed any bad repute or mismanagement of the colony.

Mr. Bull being wholly unacquainted with the value of the land, was induced by these parties to take it at $1 and $150 per acre, when it was well known in Philadelphia that for years the owners of better lands in the immediate vicinity have only valued them at from twenty-five accepts. o seventy-five cents. This knight of the pill-box asserts in his let-ter that he knows that Mr. Bull lost no money in his connection with the colony; that he re-sold the land for double the amount he paid for it, and that nothing but a friendly transac-tion took place between Mr. Bull and the land-

Now, every word of this he knew to be false, or else he pledged his word to what he knew

As to the $1,500 received by his counsel, it seems Mr. Bull considered the amount well ing, who are better capable of judging than matrimony—being five his those who, by their base treachery, caused him years old! Courage, girls!

That Mr. Bull is not a business man is undeniable; but an assertion that he is not philanthropic and benevolent, requires no refutation but his acts, and comes with an ill grace from a fawning sycophant, who sells himself to the enemies of his former benefactor, to obtain a Counsel of Ole Bull, 49 Wall street. Nov. 18, 1853.

Qualls in Iowa.—The Madison Journal says, speaking of the abundance of qualls there this season:

"So plenty are they that they run about the streets, flying against and breaking windows, and occasionally come in contact with the side of a house with such force as to fall lifeless to the ground. The consequence is that aware the ground. The consequence is that every old musket has been put in requisition, the b'hoys are out in full force, and a general popping is heard in all directions. One circumstance renders this a little unpleasant. In walking through the streets no one knows how soon he may receive a charge of shot in the back. Several have been badly wounded—in the clothes already, and some windows broken. We understand the corporation are about to take steps to put a stop to such proceedings."

This must be another of those migrations of the game which takes place occasionally, at intervals of years, and which have puzzled those best acquainted with the habits of the denizens of the forest to assign a cause for. There was a very remarkable one some twenty years ago, when immense quantities of quail, squirrels, turkeys, and even bears, passed through Ohio. Their course was from the north-west to the south-east, and the movement extended to the western base of the Allegheny of a newspaper who is possessed of that self-respect which should be a characteristic of anrespect which should be a characteristic of an-order of men from whom so much is expected in the way of forming public manners, should at once enter his protest against a custom out of which so much evil may arise as from the practice of admitting attaches of the press to places of amusement free of expense. The places of amusement free of expense. The practice of giving the free entre of theatres and the like to writers for newspapers, is one which is at once disadvantageous to the manager, and humiliating to those who receive the intended humiliating to those who receive the intended compliment. In any other kind of business, the person engaged in it is willing to pay a fair equivalent for advertising. Managers of theatres are not willing to do so; but, presum-ing on the necessity which papers are under of publishing their play bills, as matters of news, force the publishers to take them at a non-re-munerative rate, giving in archange a feet list force the publishers to take them at a non-remunerative rate, giving in exchange a free list with some half a dozen names, and expecting, in return, unqualified puffs of every performance. This is disadvantageous to the managers, humiliating to the conductors of the press, and may be unjust to the public. We can see no reason why theatrical managers should not pay for advertising their commodities, as well as others who live by exchanging one article for another, nor why they should one article for another, nor why they should expect a newspaper to certify to the genuine-ness of the article they offer, when that certificate is unfounded in truth. There is a ble unfairness in the thing which presents itself to every one. By this custom theatres may lose, but we cannot see how they can possibly gain. The practice destroys the confidence of the public in newspaper criticism, and readers come to look at the notices written, not as the genuine expression of the sentiments of the writer, but as advertisements duly paid for, which are by no means to be believe All interested should join in putting down the system. Let managers pay a fair price for advertising their performances. Editors and others will be willing to pay for seeing them. Let fair criticisms be written and justice will be done to the public and truth vindicated. If the plan shall succeed in purifying the drama, or in bringing out the merits of one good actor. or in bringing out the merits of one good actor where now we have a dozen poor ones, our object will have been accomplished. We shall not be wanting in our endeavors to bring about this end.—N. O. Crescent.

We shall not violate any particular courtesy, and do not intend to hurt any body's feelings, by putting in print the following little anecdote. We have told it a number of times, and suppose it may therefore be recognised by some as an old acquaintance, but that won't make much difference. At all events, it will make much difference. At all events, it will serve to "fill up the paper."

Some years ago, when we enjoyed the honor and dignity of the chief magistracy of this village, we had occasion to preside at a sort of municipal supper, or tea-drinking, as the ladies would say. Seated near us, was a well-known, good natured jolly individual who bears by courtesy the title of doctor. After ample justice had been done to the solid and substantial part of the visuals, the lighter articles as usual. part of the viands, the lighter articles, as usual, were brought on, and as luck would have it, a specimen of that nice affair known as "Charlotte Russe," was put before us. It was rather a novelty in this region, and therefore, after helping "the doctor" to a pretty good portion, and observing his disposal of it, as appeared to us, with considerable gusto and satisfaction, we ventured to inquire his opinion of its merits. "Well," said the doctor, sputtering out the words between two mouthfuls, "it's a pretty
